1. On 19 April 1954 a senior Office of Training instructor returned from the Middle East, having completed a three weeks' special training assignment. Instruction was presented to ten officers of the [REDACTED] and included fundamental elements of Communist Party operations. The instructor prepared an extensive outline of his lectures. These outlines will be translated into Arabic in the field for use by graduates of this course in training other members of the [REDACTED] gence Service.

2. In response to a special request received from the Clandestine Services, the Staybehind Operations Course previously scheduled for July 1954 is being presented during the period of 26 April to 14 May. This course will deviate from the usual pattern in that the entire program will be presented at [REDACTED]. This arrangement will increase the effectiveness of instruction through more extensive use of the practical exercises and will afford students more time for study.

3. The Assistant to the Director of Central Intelligence has made available to the Office of Training 500 reprints of the Director's interview which appeared recently in U.S. News and World Report. Distribution is being made on a selective basis by the Chief, Orientation and Briefing Division.
